KENNETH L. DIXON
WASHINGTON, March 30 — How much can a country change in 60 days, and who brings about the changes? How pessimistic can you get, and what causes it? At what point do previously hopeful men abandon peace and regard war as a definite fact of the immediate future, awaiting only the setting of the scene and date? What part does such a frame of mind play in the actual start of the festivities? Those are questions that can keep you awake nights, nowadays. Two months ago, this correspondent took off to wander across Europe and Palestine, and the mood was then quite different. People planted questions, pertinent questions, albeit interspersed with wisecracks, and you made innumerable mental notes to try and find the answers.

Let us know, they said, if it looks like another war over there. Nostalgia must have up and kicked you in the pants, they jibed, if you have to go hunting a war. Didn't the last one satisfy you, or have you already forgotten? Look, they said, find out if we're going to have to fight the Russians, or if this is all just talk. Send us a cable if it looks like war is coming, they reminded. We want to get a head start on our draft board this time. If they start that business over again, we're going to sit this one out in the hills.

Will there be war? Do the Russians mean business? What's all this about? Who can afford a war now? You find out and give us the lowdown, they said. So, 60 days later you come home again, all loaded down with facts and figures and experiences and convictions — and strangely hopeful that maybe this sporadic shooting here and there won't become an epidemic, even yet. Hopeful at first, that is. You start to tell them and maybe, if you're lucky, you get two sentences out—and then the questions start: "When is it going to start, they ask, and where? Will we drop the big fire-cracker right at first, they want to know, or will we wait a while? How long can our troops in Germany hold out when it starts? Will we throw troops right (Continued on Page Two)

A-Energy Stepup Is Urged

Request Is Made For More Funds

WASHINGTON, March 30 — The Atomic Energy Commission has stepped up production of the atomic bomb and the development of "new and improved" nuclear weapons because of "the desperate state" of the world.

Chairman David E. Lilienthal intimated to a congressional subcommittee that the commission is fearful that others may have discovered the secret of the A-bomb and that it is essential that this nation keep in the forefront in nuclear development and research.

Lilienthal emphasized the urgency of the situation in a plea before a House appropriations subcommittee for more funds for research and expansion of existing facilities. His testimony and that of other members of the commission was made public today.

The committee approved in full the commission's request for authority to spend during the next three months an additional $150 million on the atomic energy program.

THE COMMITTEE urged the Atomic Energy Commission "to move forward with all possible speed in its research programs, both in the wartime and peacetime uses of the newly-discovered secrets."

Lilienthal stated: "We are tussling with an urgent situation. If we act urgent, it is that kind of situation, as we conceive it."

"We have to assume, in the desperate state the world is in, that it is our job to push ahead as fast as possible, not knowing how much time there is left."

He warned the House group, headed by Rep. Taber, (R) N. Y., that world leadership in the field of atomic energy "will not be ours by just sitting."

Carroll I. Wilson, the commission's general manager, revealed that "one of the largest construction programs ever undertaken by the federal government in peacetime" is contemplated in order "to increase substantially the production of fissionable materials."

Election Board Official Fired

COLUMBUS, March 30—C. Stanley Miller of Dayton was fired as a member of the Montgomery County board of elections today by Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel.

The removal, on grounds that Miller "is guilty of malfeasance in office," is effective immediately. Miller was charged with removing excess petitions of candidates for county central precinct committeemen and state central committeemen from the board files without a written request from the members in whose name the petitions were filed.

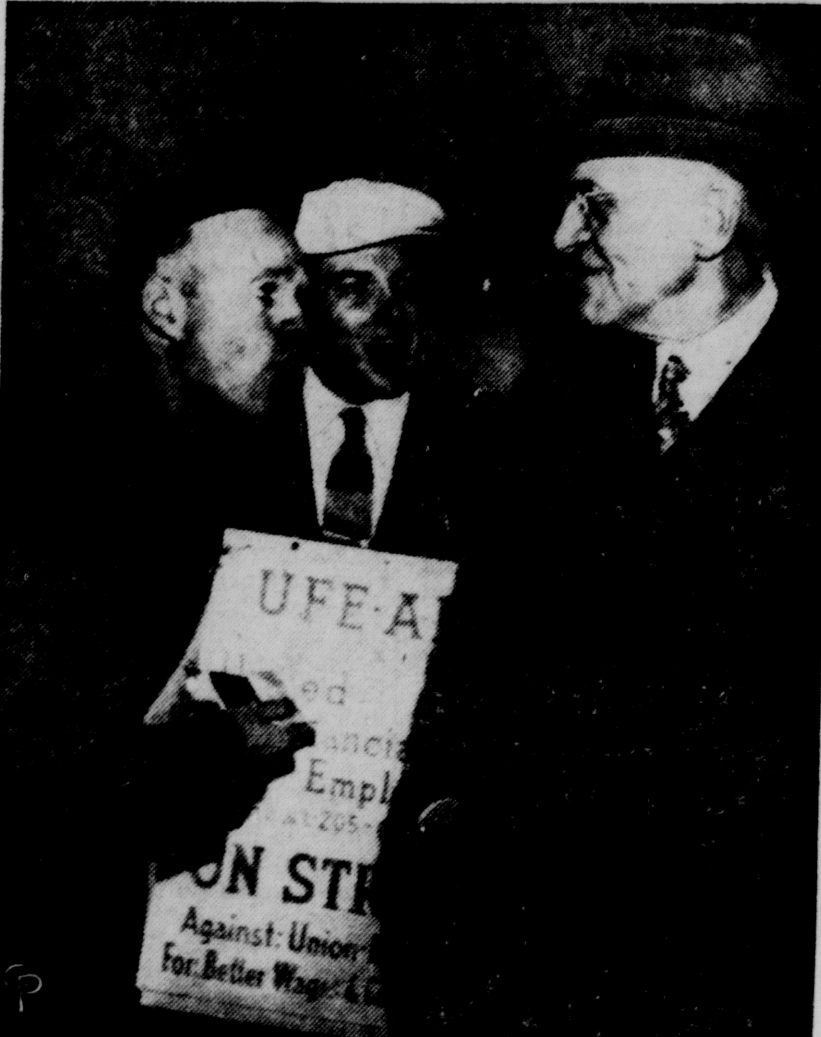

The action was taken as the house went into the second day of voting on the $6.25 billion European and China recovery program.

O'Konski urged the House to include Spain in the program as a "bulwark against Communism."

It was not known whether Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, will agree to the inclusion of the 17th nation to the program.

The matter was discussed in

$10,000 Loan To Be Used To Pay Off Coliseum Debt

Pickaway County Fair Board Monday night voted to secure a bank loan of $10,000 to pay off current debts, most of which were incurred with the completion of the new $30,000 Coliseum.

Approval of the loan by the board of county commissioners came last week after three appraisers set value of about $160,000 on Fairground lands and buildings.

The Fair Board originally had asked that the commissioners advance the necessary fund. However, officials of Circleville First National Bank offered the loan at one percent interest.

It was explained the bank felt that "for the good of the community," it could advance the money at the unusually low interest rate. Fair Board officials, obviously gratified by the bank's generosity, instructed its finance committee to negotiate the loan, pay off all standing debts.

Among the various bills to be paid are those concerning lumber, hardware, plumbing, electric fixtures and utility company obligations.

ACTUALLY, the fair board owes approximately $8,500 and the remaining $1,500 will be used for further improvements. Landscaping probably will be among these additions.

Bulk of the Monday night meeting was taken up with minor plans for the coming county fair.

It was reported that approximately $18,000 will be required to finance the 1948 exposition. Board members insisted the budget be kept "as tight as possible" so that the fair will break even with expenditures, if not show a profit.

The board's finance committee reported it had come to an agreement with the county school system regarding charges made for the Coliseum, during tournament time.

The schools agreed to pay $700 for the seven nights of play (Continued on Page Two)

Packer Walkout In 3rd Week

CHICAGO, March 30—The nationwide CIO packinghouse workers strike entered its third week today with efforts toward reaching a settlement now at a standstill.

A three-man presidential board of inquiry has completed its investigation of the strike and is preparing a report to be presented to President Truman on April 8.

The board is empowered only to study the facts in the strike.

UMT Said Program Of 'Aggression'

Wallace Raps Truman; President Invites Henry To Go To Russia

WASHINGTON, March 30—Henry A. Wallace, third party presidential candidate, today accused the Truman administration of launching a "program of aggression" in asking Congress for a temporary draft and Universal Military Training.

Wallace told the Senate armed services committee that Mr. Truman's new $14 billion defense budget next year may reach $25 billion—"apart from foreign political ventures."

Wallace's testimony followed the President's own declaration that the former vice-president should go to Russia and "help them against his own country, if that's the way he feels."

Wallace warned that the American people are "being taken down the road to war" and face "national disaster." The President, already had disavowed support from "Wallace and his Communists" even if it means defeat. He delivered his latest blast against the former vice-president in a speech before the Order of Ahepa, a Greek-American fraternity in Washington last night.

MR. TRUMAN told his listeners that the "Greeks had a Henry Wallace." He said he referred to a Greek "demagogue," Alcibiades, whom he described as having "the voice of a siren" and "the looks of a god."

The President added: "If imitators of that ancient Greek conqueror want to see its (America's) liberties subverted,

I suggest that they go not to the Rocky Mountains—that's fine country out there—he ought to go to the country he loves so well and help them against his own country, if that's the way he feels."

Mayor Satisfied The Way Coins Pour In Meters

The parking meter picture in Circleville has brightened considerably since the first hectic week spent by Circleville police in adjusting themselves to the program.

Mayor Thurman I. Miller, sorting and checking off a pile of envelopes each containing a $1 fine for the meter violation, said Tuesday he was "quite satisfied with the way the program was progressing, not because many have received fines, but because the meters are now being recognized."

Miller added that "the police have done a commendable job in seeing to it that the new meter law is respected." He added: "There are still a few who have not come in to pay their fines yet, even though they have been notified they have violated the law. However, we plan to see to it that they are assessed in the near future."

LONDON, March 30—Reports from Moscow said today that Finland is about ready to sign a pact of military alliance with Russia.

A Reuters dispatch from the Soviet capital said that the Finnish delegation is believed to have reached an agreement with Russia on the general lines of a mutual aid treaty.

Stockholm advices said new instructions for the Finnish delegation were prepared yesterday by Finland's cabinet and that these are expected to be approved by the foreign relations committee sometime today.

UN To Hear U.S. Ask For Truce In Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 30—The United Nations will be asked by the United States in a formal resolution today to seek a truce in Palestine and to call a special session of the General Assembly.

The American move, delayed last week by President Truman's statement that a temporary trusteeship is advocated until the current violence subsides and makes way for partition as the final solution, is slated for the Security Council meeting this afternoon.

The bitter outcry to the shelving of partition by the U. S. has failed to subside over the weekend recess and increased violence in the Holy Land during Easter appeared largely to have evoked a demand that swift and positive action be taken at Lake Success.

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin is virtually certain to face an extended cross-examination in the 11-nation body by small powers, who are determined to discover whether the United States would be prepared to back with force a temporary trusteeship.

Clay Says Reds Must Be Halted

WASHINGTON, March 30—Lt. Gen. Lucius Clay, American military governor in Germany, has warned Congress that Communism must be halted at the Rhine or it will engulf all of Europe and then directly endanger the United States.

Clay's warning was contained in testimony made public today by the House appropriations committee. He stated:

"If Communism does penetrate into Western Germany and if it is successful in getting a strong hold across the Rhine, then it becomes almost impossible to stop its spread throughout Europe."

He then added that it is his belief that America would be in danger if this happened.

UMW Chief Stops Ignoring Probers

Boss Of Miners Stalks Before Panel After Jurist's Decree

WASHINGTON, March 30—John L. Lewis today bowed to a court order requiring his appearance before the presidential board investigating the nationwide coal mine strike.

Lewis, who had defied the board's subpoena until Federal Judge Edwin M. Curran sternly ruled this morning that he must heed it, stalked into the fact-finding group's headquarters just before the 2 o'clock deadline set by the jurist.

Had he ignored the court ruling, Lewis would have been subject to fine or imprisonment, or both.

The United Mine Workers leader has charged two members of the board—Mark Ethridge and George Taylor—with "bias and prejudice" and contends that the panel named by Mr. Truman has no authority over him or his 400,000 miners.

New Rail Cuts Seen If Miner Walkout Holds

WASHINGTON, March 30—Federal transportation officials revealed today that the government is ready to order further cuts in passenger-freight service of coal burning railroads which may strand curcuses and carnivals because of the soft-coal walkout.

Experts in the Office of Defense Transportation disclosed that the new action will be taken "probably by April 10" unless the miners return to the pits.

The new cuts would be in addition to the 25 percent reduction already ordered. The cut in passenger service became effective March 21. The freight cut will become effective at midnight tonight.

ODT executives said the extent of the new order has not yet been determined. But they added:

Native's Plan Booms Top Marks

A Circleville native has set up a deal in Columbus which reportedly has won him loud praise from every school marm in the capitol city.

The gentleman in question is Stuart C. (Spang) Spangler, son of Mrs. Noah Spangler, 127 West High street, Circleville. Spangler is now a drug store owner in Columbus.

Seems the Pickaway Countian pays fountain awards to kids who show up with an "A" on their report cards.

Whenever report card day rolls around, Spangler holds inspection.

A card with an "A" draws a free ticket for sodas, sundaes or milkshakes.

Spangler, proud of his idea, declares: "You'd be surprised the way these kids work for an A. Why, they even promise to do better next time."

Violence Hits Lush Wall Street

NEW YORK, March 30—Violence broke out in Wall Street today, in the strike of 1,100 unionized employees of the New York stock exchange.

Pickets and police staged a knockdown battle in front of the exchange after the police arrested a girl picket on a disorderly conduct charge.

Before the excitement was over two riot squads had been rushed to the scene. At least 60 arrests were made.

JUDGE CURRAN, in issuing the order, shut off government attorneys prepared to argue the validity of the fact-finding board's subpoena which Lewis defied. The jurist said:

"I don't care to hear you on that point at all. The court issued a rule to show cause on John L. Lewis. I don't think it is necessary to have any enlargement."

The miners' president did not appear personally in court.

JUDGE CURRAN brusquely denied the plea of Lewis' attorney, Welly K. Hopkins, for a delay in the proceedings.

Judge Curran peremptorily silenced Hopkins. The judge snapped: "That matter is not before me."

The department of Justice requested the court to compel Lewis' appearance before the fact-finding board after the union chief refused voluntarily to testify and defied a subpoena from the three-man panel.

Hopkins attempted vainly to get a postponement of the proceedings.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A report from New York indicates that three of four Americans never learned to play a musical instrument. A report from Washington indicates that one who did wishes he had stuck with it.

The action of the Mississippi legislature in considering banning of piano-playing of "The Missouri Waltz" on the air infringes the rights of two Presidents. . . and Petrillo is not easily appeased.

Mississippi also wants Southern radio stations to open and close their programs with "Dixie". . . and if it leaks north they're for that too.

First thing you know they'll be running an independent "Voice of America" program with Speedy Riggs beamed toward Washington.

I hear Harry didn't mind when they talked of plugging his piano and he didn't mind when they talked up "Dixie" for a theme song but when they prefaced his last speech with, "the views of the speaker are not necessarily those of Robert E. Lee," he got a little angry.

House Panel OKs ERP Aid To Spain

WASHINGTON, March 30 — The House foreign affairs committee voted today to broaden the European Recovery Program to include Spain.

The committee took this decision at a closed door meeting at which it was agreed to include the Franco government sponsored by Rep. O'Konski, (R) Wis.

The action was taken as the house went into the second day of voting on the $6.25 billion European and China recovery program.

O'Konski urged the House to include Spain in the program as a "bulwark against Communism."

It was not known whether Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, will agree to the inclusion of the 17th nation to the program.

The matter was discussed in the Senate, but no formal motion was made there to include Spain.

Recently, at a meeting of Marshall Plan nations in Europe, Portugal suggested that Spain be included in the program, but no action was taken by the other European nations.

One Republican leader commented that "as long as we've included Portugal in the program, I don't see why we should leave out Spain, which could become a final battlefield in Europe against Communism."

The State department has sent no estimates to Congress on how much aid would be required for Spain in addition to the $5.3 billion set aside in the legislation for 16 Western European nations, plus Western Germany.

Spain was not invited to the Paris conference last Summer at which a program of self-help and American aid was drawn up in response to Secretary of State Marshall's proposal for European recovery.

The government of Dictator Franco has been censured by the United Nations.

The House leadership is committed to passing the bill tomorrow at the latest. Passage appeared assured, Rep. Allen, (R) Ill., rules committee chairman, who is against the legislation, predicted that the opposition (Continued on Page Two)

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A report from New York indicates that three of four Americans never learned to play a musical instrument. A report from Washington indicates that one who did wishes he had stuck with it.

The action of the Mississippi legislature in considering banning of piano-playing of "The Missouri Waltz" on the air infringes the rights of two Presidents. . . and Petrillo is not easily appeased.

Mississippi also wants Southern radio stations to open and close their programs with "Dixie" . . . and if it leaks north they're for that too.

First thing you know they'll be running an independent "Voice of America" program with Speedy Riggs beamed toward Washington.

I hear Harry didn't mind when they talked of plugging his piano and he didn't mind when they talked up "Dixie" for a theme song but when they prefaced his last speech with, "the views of the speaker are not necessarily those of Robert E. Lee," he got a little angry.

House Panel OKs ERP Aid To Spain

WASHINGTON, March 30—The House foreign affairs committee voted today to broaden the European Recovery Program to include Spain.

The committee took this decision at a closed door meeting at which it was agreed to accept an amendment to include the Franco government sponsored by Rep. O'Konski, (R) Wis.

The action was taken as the House went into the second day of voting on the $6.25 billion European and China recovery program.

O'Konski urged the House to include Spain in the program as a "bulwark against Communism."

It was not known whether Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, will agree to the inclusion of the 17th nation to the program.

The matter was discussed in the Senate, but no formal motion was made there to include Spain.

Recently, at a meeting of Marshall Plan nations in Europe, Portugal suggested that Spain be included in the program, but no action was taken by the other European nations.

One Republican leader commented that "as long as we've included Portugal in the program, I don't see why we should leave out Spain, which could become a final battlefield in Europe against Communism."

The State department has sent no estimates to Congress on how much aid would be required for Spain in addition to the $5.3 billion set aside in the legislation for 16 Western European nations, plus Western Germany.

Spain was not invited to the Paris conference last Summer at which a program of self-help and American aid was drawn up in response to Secretary of State Marshall's proposal for European recovery.

The government of Dictator Franco has been censured by the United Nations.

The House leadership is committed to passing the bill tomorrow at the latest. Passage appeared assured. Rep. Allen, (R) Ill., rules committee chairman, who is against the legislation, predicted that the opposition

The President declared that the United States has never wanted war. He said that there are "certain things worse than war." Mr. Truman continued:

"One of them is slavery. That's what we were faced with in 1940 and 1941. We are faced with almost exactly the same situation today."

He recalled that on March 12, 1947, he told Congress that the Greek-Turkish aid program, now being expanded with military assistance, was a "serious course." The Pickaway County rural fire truck was called at 11:22 a. m. Tuesday to the farm of Cliff Miller, about four miles South of Circleville, to put out a blaze started when gasoline was being pumped into a tractor.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the gasoline was being pumped into the tractor from an electric pump and must have caught fire from a spark of static electricity.

Wise said the pump was severely damaged, and the tractor burned to a lesser extent.

A battle is anticipated also over inclusion of military aid for China, Greece and Turkey and establishment of an administrator to handle the program rather than an independent bi-partisan corporation, as recommended by the special House (Hertel) foreign aid committee.

In addition to ERP funds, the House bill contains $570 million for China, $275 million for Greece and Turkey, $20 million for Trieste, and $60 million for the United Nations' Children's Fund.

In the Senate, the leadership called up the China aid bill and Sen. Wherry, (R) Neb., the majority whip, predicted swift passage. The Senate measure contains $463 million for the Chiang Kai-Shek government, including $100 million which can be used by the Chinese for military supplies.

This is the third foreign aid bill to be tackled by the Senate. On March 13 it approved $5.3 billion for the European Recovery Program and then followed this up with $275 million for Greece and Turkey.

The situation resulted from the relentless Arab attacks on Jewish convoys attempting to supply the Jerusalem Jews through convoys from Tel Aviv and Haifa.

Conservancy District Asks Court Decision

The Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District has asked the Pickaway County common pleas court for a declaratory judgment on whether it can levy an assessment on all Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co. property in Pickaway County, both real and personal, or whether it must follow a recent state supreme court decision and tax only real property.

According to statutes, the conservancy district is a political subdivision of the state and has been given certain powers to levy taxes to the extent of three-tenths of a mill on assessed valuations of property.

Although the special assessment already has been made in the 17 Ohio counties which contain C and O property, the state officials want a clear signal from the county's tax officials on what and how much they can tax.

In addition to the railway firm, the petition names the three members of Pickaway County's board of tax revision as defendants in the case by virtue of the office they hold.

THEY ARE County Treasurer Robert Colville, County Auditor Fred L. Tipton and John Keller, chairman of the board of county commissioners.

In February 1947, the district borrowed $160,000 to pay organization expenses, for surveys, plans and incidental expenses. They have levied a three-tenths mill tax against the C and O's total assessment.

The State Department of Taxation has declared the railway company is holder of $2,806,000 worth of property in Pickaway County.

Of this, $2,740,000 has been declared personal and the remaining $66,000 is real property holdings.

The question that arises with conservancy district officials is whether to follow the state's general code which says public service corporations, (which would include the C and O) can be taxed on real and personal property, or:

Whether the Roosevelt Pottery Decision is made by the supreme court will be followed by the State Department of Taxation. Under this ruling the C and O would be liable for taxation only on $65,000 worth of its real property.

Mountain Feud Blazes Again; Man Is Killed

HYDEN, Ky., March 30—The Eastern Kentucky mountains today were ringing with the echoes of gunshots in as bitter a feud as the Hyden-Harlan area ever has known.

The latest victim of an outbreak that burst into the open last December was T. J. Brock, former owner of the Medo-Mont tavern on the Harlan-Hyden road.

Brock, 43, was shot down on a Hyden street last night as several gunmen "deliberately ambushed" Brock, his wife, Bertha, and four other companions.

Mrs. Brock was slightly wounded by a bullet in the hail of lead that killed her husband. It was the second time in less than three months that Mrs. Brock was a target and wounded by bullets.

ONE OF THE four accompanying the Brocks, Junior Sizemore, 19, said the party of six had started to enter a restaurant about 9 p. m., when several men opened up with "pistols, shotguns and high-powered rifles" from "about 15 steps."

Sizemore said the shooting continued for about "five minutes and 50 bullets" as he and Bill Asher and Asher's wife, and Gillie Woods escaped by running to the rear of the restaurant.

The gunmen stood out in the open, blazing away, according to Sizemore.

Kentucky state highway patrolmen said warrants would be obtained for those in the group of gunmen who were recognized.

Appraisers were George S. Grove, Charles Cook and E. W. Seeds.

War Talk Changes

into the Middle East, or by-pass it in the beginning?

What sort of incident is going to touch it off, they ask, and will we take the initiative or wait for them to start it?

At first, you don't notice the absent question, but after a while it begins to echo in the back of your brain, like bars of a missing melody you can not quite remember. And then it comes to you.

Nobody is asking if there's going to be a war.

Nobody wants to know if you think peace still is possible.

Nobody questions now as to whether this business is serious.

Nobody even asks if they think it means war over there.

All they want to know is where and when and how it will come. And what chances we will have in the early phases. And whether we'll use the atom bomb right at first, or wait until later.

Something has happened to them in 60 days—something that frightens you, because you've seen war again in that same period. . . a little war, but enough to revive all your hatreds of it.

A little war, perhaps, but still it had its dead and wounded, and its reluctant heroes who shook their heads and trembled and then went out to die. A little war it might be, but not too small for all the frightful sounds and rotten smells and gut-sick miseries.

Yet, you came home hoping that it would not grow and spread. You came home certain that this festering contagion could and should be quarantined and halted.

You came home quite convinced that all this could be accomplished without another pilgrimage down the gory road.

But try to say that now—to-day.

Talk sense, they interrupt you sharply, we're not asking if it's coming—we're asking when and how.

Suddenly you don't know. If 60 days can change America's "if" to "when, where and how"—who knows what the next two months will bring?

3 Farm Bureau Co-Op Trustees Reelected At Annual Meet Here

Three directors of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau Co-operative, Inc., were reelected for three-year terms at the second annual meeting of stockholders and patrons Monday night in Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Reelected were T. M. Glick, Circleville Township; H. C. Hines and Ira Fisher of Walnut Township.

Six other members of the board currently serving on terms of office are S. A. Beers, Franklin Riddle, J. B. Stevenson, C. D. Hosler, Ralph Bolender and Russell England.

A report on last year's business was presented to the group by Orwin Drum, bureau manager and a color movie was shown on "Vacation with a Purpose."

THE PICTURE showed developments of cooperatives in North Central U. S. and South Central Canada.

J. Arnold Burkhardt, co-manager from Carroll County, spoke on "Building." He pointed out that some building already has been done today, but there is a great need of building for the future.

"Building should be done so people in this country can have and maintain an adequate standard of living with no discrimination regardless of race, color or creed."

"This should be done not only in this country, but in every nation of the world," Burkhardt declared.

A report on the proposed $40,000 Farm Bureau service center was given by C. E. Copeland.

He said, "Our goal is to give service to farmers because they are the owners and controllers of the farm bureau."

A total of $7,700 in cash dividends was paid out to patron farmers. The largest payment was in the neighborhood of $150, Bureau officials reported.

She in common with Harriett Colman, claims an interest under the will of Georgia H. James who died in Circleville in March, 1947.

Jap Chieftain Sees Big Loan

TOKYO, March 30—Prime Minister Hiroshi Ashida announced today he expects United States aid to Japan to total $1 billion for the next fiscal year.
An official at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters, however, belittled the Japanese premier's estimate saying:
"He has taken a most optimistic view of each aid prospect and has added them all together."

votes would total 75 to 100.
Still to be voted on are amendments aimed at restricting trade with the Soviet Union, including one by Rep. Colmer, (R) Miss., calling for breaking off economic relations.
A battle is anticipated also over inclusion of military aid for China, Greece and Turkey and establishment of an administrator to handle the program rather than an independent bi-partisan corporation, as recommended by the special House (Hertter) foreign aid committee.

In addition to ERP funds, the House bill contains $70 million for China, $275 million for Greece and Turkey, $20 million for Trieste, and $60 million for the United Nations' Children's Fund.

In the Senate, the leadership called up the China aid bill and Sen. Wherry, (R) Nebr., the majority whip, predicted a swift passage. The Senate measure contains $463 million for the Chiang Kai-shek government, including $100 million which can be used by the Chinese for military supplies.
This is the third foreign aid bill to be tackled by the Senate. On March 13 it approved $5.3 billion for the European Recovery Program and then followed this up with $275 million for Greece and Turkey.

Jewish-Arab Truce Talked

LONDON, March 30—A Jerusalem dispatch to The London News Chronicle said today that high level talks are going on between Jews and Arabs in an effort to find common ground for a truce in the Holy Land.

A Daily Mail dispatch said that Jerusalem has become a "Jewish Tobruk," with every Jew in the city under siege and food stocks running short.
The situation resulted from the relentless Arab attacks on Jewish convoys attempting to supply the Jerusalem Jews through convoys from Tel Aviv and Haifa.

Mountain Feud Blazes Again; Man Is Killed

HYDEN, Ky., March 30—The Eastern Kentucky mountains today were ringing with the echoes of gunshots in as bitter a feud as the Hyden-Harlan area ever has known.

The latest victim of an outbreak that burst into the open last December was T. J. Brock, former owner of the Medo-Mont tavern on the Harlan-Hyden road.

Brock, 43, was shot down on a Hyden street last night as several gunmen "deliberately ambushed" Brock, his wife, Bertha, and four other companions.
Mrs. Brock was slightly wounded by a bullet in the hail of lead that killed her husband. It was the second time in less than three months that Mrs. Brock was a target and wounded by bullets.

completing the Brooks, Junior Sizemore, 19, said the party of six had started to enter a restaurant about 9 p. m., when several men opened up with "pistols, shotguns and high-powered rifles" from "about 15 steps."
Sizemore said the shooting continued for about "five minutes and 50 bullets" as he and Bill Asher and Asher's wife, and Gillie Woods escaped by running to the rear of the restaurant.
The gunmen stood out in the open, blazing away, according to Sizemore.

War Talk Changes

into the Middle East, or by-pass it in the beginning?
What sort of incident is going to touch it off, they ask, and will we take the initiative or wait for them to start it?

At first, you don't notice the absent question, but after a while it begins to echo in the back of your brain, like bars of a missing melody you can not quite remember. And then it comes to you.
Nobody is asking if there's going to be a war.

Nobody wants to know if you think peace still is possible.

Nobody questions now as to whether this business is serious.

Nobody even asks if they think it means war over there.

All they want to know is where and when and how it will come. And what chances we will have in the early phases. And whether we'll use the atom bomb right at first, or wait until later.

Something has happened to them in 60 days—something that frightens you, because you've seen war again in that same period... a little war, but enough to revive all your hatreds of it.

A little war, perhaps, but still it had its dead and wounded, and its reluctant heroes who shook their heads and trembled and then went out to die. A little war it might be, but not too small for all the frightful sounds and rotten smells and gut-sick miseries.

Yet, you came home hoping that it would not grow and spread. You came home certain that this festering contagion could and should be quarantined and halted.

You came home quite convinced that all this could be accomplished without another pilgrimage down the gory road.

But try to say that now—today.

Talk sense, they interrupt you sharply, we're not asking if it's coming—we're asking when and how.

Suddenly you don't know. If 60 days can change America's "if" to "when, where and how"—who knows what the next two months will bring?

the presidential fact-finding board was created.

Assistant Attorney General Graham Morrison defended the validity and legality of the service of the "show cause" order on Lewis but the judge cut him short.

Judge Curran said:
"This court now orders John L. Lewis to appear this afternoon before the presidential board of inquiry in Conference Room B of the Labor Department auditorium."

Judge Curran declared that it seemed to him the court had been "most fair" in issuing a rule to show cause on Lewis, giving him an opportunity to appear and argue against an order requiring his attendance before the board of inquiry.

The justice said "it is my view the court could have issued an order direct to Lewis to appear before the board."

THE THREE-MAN panel wants to hear Lewis so that it can complete a report to President Truman on the coal controversy.

After the board reports, the government can obtain an 80-day injunction under the new labor statute against continuance of the mine strike.

Lewis refused to voluntarily appear before the fact finders and defied a board subpoena.

Chairman Sherman Minton, himself a federal circuit judge, thereupon signed a petition for court enforcement of the subpoena.

OEA Pressing For More Aid

The Ohio Education association is set this week to pounce on a proposed constitutional amendment which would limit state aid to schools to $120 per pupil per annum.

The proposed bill would leave the city and rural schools in Pickaway County unaffected, however, since the state, under the new law, is paying those schools from $31 to $49 under the proposed limit to date.

Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville public schools, says a check on state aid shows that Circleville is receiving but $71.45 per pupil per year under the new law, and that its total expenditures per pupil for a year amounts to only $106.52, $13.48 less than the state aid limit proposed.

The Pickaway County schools, on the other hand, are receiving approximately $88.45 per pupil for the year, but their total average for educating one pupil for a year comes to $172.03.

GEORGE D. McDOWELL, county superintendent, said the chief cause of the low state aid in Pickaway County was due to the four and one-half mills which must be levied against the real estate valuation.

He said the valuation in Pickaway County was relatively high, thus lowering the amount of aid.

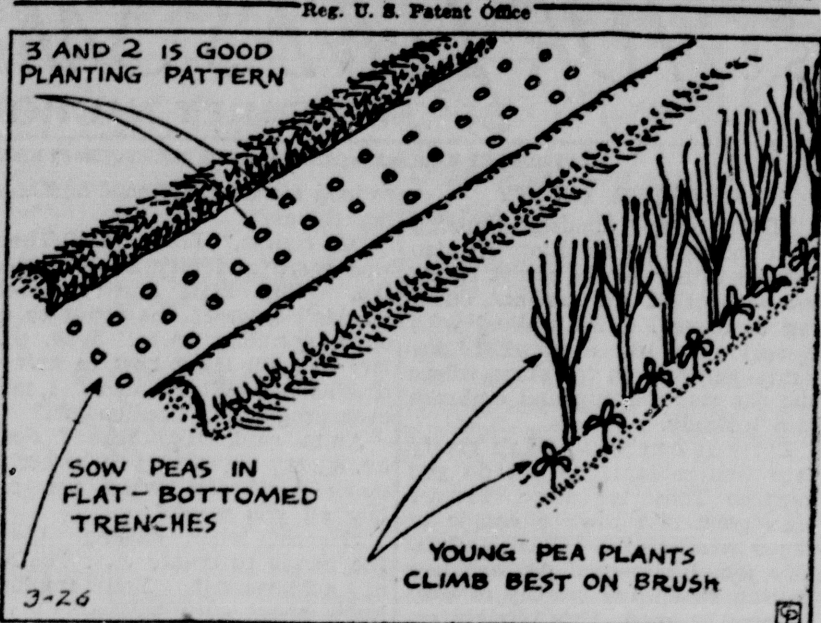

OEA secretary Walton B. Bliss has declared, however, that the bill to limit aid, if approved, would "shortsightedly place a rigid ceiling on the future of Ohio's children" and "could have an adverse effect on the salaries of all persons who have chosen teaching as their career."

Bliss also said that the amendment would prevent "hundreds of school districts, hard pressed to pay the $2,400 minimum teacher's salary now required by law, from paying above that amount to experienced teachers."

County schools, according to the secretary, would suffer more than city schools, since "less than $100 would be left for instructional purposes after the transportation costs had been met, and the cut would tend to discourage the reorganization of the smaller districts into more efficient units."

Carbon black was first used by tire makers to give new corded fabric and rubber tires a color which would distinguish them from old style fabric tires. Soon technicians found that by adding more and more carbon black, the average life of a tire tread could be more than tripled.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Quick Start for Early Peas

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Distributed by Central Press Association

SINCE peas are a cool weather crop the early planting should be given as quick a start as possible. Plant them as soon as it is possible to work the soil.

A good planting pattern is 3-and-2, two inches apart in the trench, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

A flat-bottomed trench is best since it gives the peas room to develop to best advantage. The roots have an opportunity to develop properly. The peas should be planted so as to allow the foliage of one row to shade the roots of the next row, thereby keeping the roots cool and moist.

Inasmuch as peas do not like dryness at their feet, early plantings of peas need not be as deep as later plantings when the growing peas must struggle against heat and sometimes drought.

Wire supports for peas are often "too much" trouble for home gardeners. Therefore the use of "twiggy" brush branches is suggested, as illustrated. Sharpen the butts of the branches and sink them firmly into the soil at sowing time.

The twigs used as climbing supports should be at least six inches higher than the final growth height of the variety of peas planted.

The smooth type of pea seeds should be used for early plantings since they are harder than the wrinkled and will not be injured by late frosts.

Western Hemisphere Statesmen Await Opening Of Bogota Parley

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 30 —Western hemisphere statesmen assembled in Bogota today for the ninth inter-American conference, determined to check the growth of Communism in the Americas.

Many problems are on the agenda of the parley as it opens in the so-called "Athens of America." The majority admit privately that the onrush of Communism is the chief problem facing the world today.

President Ospina Perez of Colombia will inaugurate the conference sessions when he addresses the delegates in the central salon of the capitol.

Bogota itself never has been gay, more colorful or cleaner. Flags of all the Americas decorate the streets.

A distracting note appeared in chalked signs and placards placed around the plaza by Communists which read "Down with Truman" and "Down with Marshall."

A COMMUNIST demonstration, expected with the arrival yesterday of United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall, failed to materialize. But officials feared that some sort of demonstration may be staged at the opening of the sessions.

Marshall, who chose to play a modest role and not attempt to steal the show from his host government on arrival, was cheered loudly by throngs who lined the streets along the route he took from the airport to the presidential palace to present his credentials.

The announced purpose of the conference is to study problems related to preparedness and the preservation of peace in the western hemisphere and the world at large.

SINCE peas are a cool weather crop the early planting should be given as quick a start as possible. Plant them as soon as it is possible to work the soil.

A good planting pattern is 3-and-2, two inches apart in the trenches as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

A flat-bottomed trench is best since it gives the peas room to develop to best advantage. The roots have an opportunity to develop properly. The peas should be planted so as to allow the foliage of one row to shade the roots of the next row, thereby keeping the roots cool and moist.

Inasmuch as peas do not like dryness at their feet, early plantings of peas need not be as deep as later plantings when the growing peas must struggle against heat and sometimes drought.

Wire supports for peas are often "too much" trouble for home gardeners. Therefore the use of "twiggy" brush branches is suggested, as illustrated. Sharpen the butts of the branches and sink them firmly into the soil at sowing time.

The twigs used as climbing supports should be at least six inches higher than the final growth height of the variety of peas planted.

The smooth type of pea seeds should be used for early plantings since they are harder than the wrinkled and will not be injured by late frosts.

Western Hemisphere Statesmen Await Opening Of Bogota Parley

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 30 —Western hemisphere statesmen assembled in Bogota today for the ninth inter-American conference, determined to check the growth of Communism in the Americas.

Many problems are on the agenda of the parley as it opens in the so-called "Athens of America." The majority admit privately that the onrush of Communism is the chief problem facing the world today.

President Ospina Perez of Colombia will inaugurate the conference sessions when he addresses the delegates in the central salon of the capitol.

Bogota itself never has been gay, more colorful or cleaner. Flags of all the Americas decorate the streets.

A distracting note appeared in chalked signs and placards placed around the plaza by Communists which read "Down with Truman" and "Down with Marshall."

A COMMUNIST demonstration, expected with the arrival yesterday of United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall, failed to materialize. But officials feared that some sort of demonstration may be staged at the opening of the sessions.

Marshall, who chose to play a modest role and not attempt to steal the show from his host government on arrival, was cheered loudly by throngs who lined the streets along the route he took from the airport to the presidential palace to present his credentials.

The announced purpose of the conference is to study problems related to preparedness and the preservation of peace in the western hemisphere and the world at large.

CONTRIBUTION TO PEACE

IT IS hard to say whether responsibility rests with officials or reporters, or both, for the fact that certain testimony before the Senate armed services committee seemed to subscribe to the idea that only by war talk can the nation be persuaded to arm itself.

It was reported that the Secretary of the Navy told the committee that foreign submarines—reporters supplied the implication that they were Russian—had been sighted on three occasions within 200 to 800 miles of the United States shores or possessions. The information was presented by the secretary in connection with his plea for more men and aircraft for the navy.

The high seas are free to all who wish to sail them. A fuss about a submarine 200 miles off shore, of whatever nationality, is alarmist to the point of absurdity.

On the same day air officials discussed before the committee the possibility of bombing Moscow and said B-29 bombers can reach any part of Russia and go on to land at American bases. It was like a schoolboy saying to the boy across the aisle, "I can punch you in the nose if I want to."

Americans are known the world over as loud talkers, and such talk will make small impression at the Kremlin. It does not seem calculated to contribute to the peace of the world.

COUNTING PENNIES

THOSE weary of hunting change for a 13-cent street car ride, or puzzled about paying for a half-cent postage stamp, may have wished the government would issue some more convenient coins. If so, the hope had better be dropped right now. The United States mint is not interested, though it gets many requests for new money. New Yorkers, currently plagued by their new 8-cent subway fare, would love to have available a handy coin worth that amount, and they have been at pains to say so.

The present coinage system has been going on with very little change for 75 years. What has been good all these years, Congress thinks, is all right for many more. Before 1873 there were some nice little half-cent pieces, a 2-center and a 3-center. For a few years during the 1870s there was a 20-cent piece. But for some reason all have disappeared.

Most people like the present coins well enough—except that they go too fast.

The Communists seem to be engaged in a plan to make everybody dislike them more than ever.

How many of our present day notions will seem as absurd 100 years hence?

"Lake Success" is a good name—as long as the sponsors can hang onto it.

These Days

It is not within reason that Henry Wallace can be elected President of the United States in 1948. It is probably, as things are now, that he will receive between 5,000,000 and 10,000,000 votes. This will be the largest vote that any third-party leader ever received in American history.

He will then lead a sizeable minority party whose strength is not guesswork but was recorded in a general election. That the spine of his support is the Communist party; that his most vociferous advocates are renowned fellow-travelers, will not affect the situation politically. His mere appearance on the scene has already created such havoc that the Democratic leadership has been shocked into confusion.

Wallace employs the Communist technique of stimulating discontent and then combining the discontented elements into a mass following. His slogan, immediately after the war, "Boom and Bust," designed to prophesy a depression which never arrived, started a series of strikes which is the principle element in the current inflation. That he produced and used admittedly phony statistics to achieve this end bothers him not at all because his mind seems to live in a realm of slogans one of which is "The greatest good for the greatest number," which he alone knows how to achieve.

Way back in 1934, Henry Wallace wrote: "But, in addition to recognizing the honest seekers by whatever path they come, it is also essential to remember the need for tremendous earnestness. Earnestness of the depth I have in mind can come only from such a contact with inner and outer reality that it produces a state of mind which can say in all honesty, 'Thus saith the Lord.' Or in more modern language, 'The whole current of righteous events is in this direction. Decision is undeferrable. If we decide wrongly, the time of great tribulation will come upon us.'"

It was in this particular writing that he first employed the phrase, "The world is one world," subsequently captured by Wendell Willkie and Harold Stassen and others who were seeking to dramatize internationalism. Wallace has never departed from that concept, which in reality has come to mean the federation of the world under the hegemony of Soviet Russia. This trend, it is now the policy of the United States and the countries of Western Europe to arrest. But it remains the cornerstone of Henry Wallace's concept of his own role in politics.

The danger of Wallace is not that his is a confused mind, that he did or did not write the Guru letters, that he was or was not a participant in mystical religions. The danger is that he has a clear concept and a firm purpose, which is to produce a one world, no matter by what means, no matter under which country. Such a concept means the elimination of the United States as a national state, the subordination of its policy and even its life to the one world. When he was laughed at for his "milk for the Hottentots," he meant precisely that even if, in actual practice and for a time, it also meant reducing milk for Americans. It is the idea of "The greatest good for the greatest number" carried to an illogical absurdity.

To some, this makes Henry Wallace an attractive social reformer and they will follow him in a blind mass. Actually, it makes him an astute menace to the United States because he has eliminated from his thinking altogether the United States as a separate and distinct national entity.

A Symptom In Children That Always Alarms Parents

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A SYMPTOM which frightens patients is often a blessing in disguise because it sends them post-haste to the doctor for expert help. Hematuria which means the presence of blood in the urine, is such a symptom, especially in young children. And luckily so, for, when such a situation exists, no time should be lost in finding and treating the disorder which is causing it.

Search Complicated

The search may be complicated, for blood in the urine may result from many different diseases, some chiefly affecting the kidney and bladder and others being of a more general nature. The doctor's search for causes will be somewhat conditioned by the age of the patient.

In a child, for instance, he will, as a rule, first suspect nephritis or kidney inflammation, and pyelitis or inflammation of the part of the kidney in which the urine collects before it passes into the bladder. When these are ruled out by diagnostic tests, he will probably think next of rickets and scurvy, both of which have been known to cause this symptom.

Disease Affecting Blood

In obscure cases he will also consider the possibility of some disease affecting the blood itself, such as purpura, in which there is bleeding into the skin and membranes of the body; hemophilia, in which the clotting power of the blood is affected and internal hemorrhages are common; or leukemia, in which there is a great increase in the number of white cells.

In young and middle-aged adults the presence of blood in the urine may also indicate pyelitis and nephritis, but here the doctor must think of certain other possible causes as well, among them tuberculosis of the kidney, stone in the bladder, ureter, or kidney, and infections of the urinary tract.

In late middle-aged and elderly persons, long-continued inflammation of the kidney, and high blood pressure may be responsible for blood in the urine. However, at this period of life, tumors of the kidney or bladder are more often present than in younger persons, and these tumors are frequently responsible for the occurrence of blood in the urine.

If the blood comes from the bladder, it is usually brighter in color than that which comes from the kidney, pelvis or ureter. Fever, together with the bleeding, usually indicates some type of infection. Pain and frequency in emptying the bladder suggest some condition affecting the lower part of the urinary tract, such as bladder inflammation, stone in the bladder, tuberculosis, enlargement of the prostate gland, or tumor.

Chronic Infection

Pain in the sides, passing down into the groin, often indicates a chronic infection, or a stone in the ureter or canal leading from the kidney to the bladder.

Thus, it may be seen that blood in the urine can be due to a large variety of ailments, many of which are serious. Hence, there should be no delay in seeking the advice of a doctor when blood appears in the urine. The condition requires thorough and careful study on his part to determine the source of the bleeding, because it is only after the cause is found that intelligent treatment can be given.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. L.: My sister-in-law tests her urine with Benedict solution. Would this test also work in my case?

Answer: The same solution could be used to test for sugar in your case.

CHAPTER THIRTY

TONY looked suddenly imbued with energy and ambition. He seemed to regard the secret of his job with great amusement. Turning to leave Kit, he walked with a spring in his step. Kit saw Anita join him on the steps where the car was waiting and embrace him lovingly.

Later at luncheon Anita's pretty face was radiant. "What do you suppose Tony is up to, Tracy? He's gone into town a couple of times without me. To see about this job, I suppose. At last he's getting something worthy of him. It must be good. He's terribly excited about it."

Tracy looked extremely pleased, although she spoke teasingly. "Perhaps he'll bring you a new diamond bracelet from his first week's salary."

Anita folded her hands. She was too excited to eat. "And we can get an apartment in town, a much larger one than we had the last time. And I hope to get a better decorator than the one I had before. We'll get our things out of storage and buy some new ones. Oh, it'll be simply marvelous. I've given parties again and have my charge accounts active. There's so much I want to get!"

Tracy looked at her, the Tracy who recently had had leisure to think. "There was a war, you know. There could be another. People are also giving..."

"Nonsense! Why do you read the newspapers and listen to the radio? It's nothing but pessimism. It isn't good for people to read and listen to that stuff. They're all alarmists."

Tracy twisted her mouth. "What do you think, Kit?"

Kit said, "My aunt always said that it was wise to start closing the windows when you saw the storm coming rather than waiting until the storm broke. Then it's raining in before you get around to all of them."

Anita looked bored and vague. Tracy chuckled quietly. Then she said, "You're going into town today to get the wool and needles, you know." She turned to Anita. "I'm going to make a sweater. Would you like to join me?"

Anita looked at her with scorn mixed with pity. "I won't have time, darling. As soon as Tony comes back, I'll be getting ready to look for an apartment and buying things."

"Of course," Tracy said. There was scorn and pity in her voice, too. "Our little knitting circle wouldn't interest one about to go on a spending spree. Well, you buy and I'll learn how to knit if it kills me. Who knows? I may even progress to needlepoint!"

Anita said, "I'm sure I don't know why on earth you bother to make a sweater when you can buy all you want."

"Honest labor, darling. Using the hands to create... The joy of achievement. You wouldn't know about such things."

A brown envelope arrived for Kit before she left for New York that afternoon. Opening it, she took out newspaper clippings yellow with age and sat down at the desk to read them. The printed story of her father's case.

She could continue Mike's search, she thought. She could go to see John Bennett and try to locate her father's people. She could make a huge issue out of her new knowledge. Yet somehow she knew it wasn't wise, that it would avail nothing but the repetition of the story of a man and a woman who had had a great deal though they had not had it long. And somehow, too, it would be a desecration of the dead, the stirring up of sad memories, the vain bringing into the present the past which could never be changed.

And, as Mike had said, they couldn't very well let her. They didn't remember them.

She thought, I'll write Aunt Chris a long letter tonight. She slipped the clippings back into the brown envelope and the envelope into the desk drawer. Cecil was waiting to drive her into New York.

In New York after she had bought deep rose wool for Tracy and deep blue wool for herself and needles for both, she shopped for new clothes without anticipation or interest. Her mouth had a guilty, sad little smile. She thought, I keep wondering what Kirk would like. He probably likes good quality, smart but conservative clothes on women. Black perhaps. All men like blue... But did it matter very much when each August day brought the summer slowly but surely to a close, taking Kirk back to Baltimore, taking Tracy who knew not where? Would Tracy want to be in Connecticut this winter, alone with just her and the servants? It was doubtful. But Tracy, too, noticed the signs of the end of summer, the shorter days, the cooler nights. Would she, saying nothing, doing nothing, let Kirk go back to his Baltimore life? That seemed doubtful, too...

Kit bought a black light wool suit and an absurd little black hat with a veil. Wherever Tracy decided to go, the black suit would be useful.

Mike, driving up one afternoon the following week, disbelieved his eyes. He had an impulse to rub them and look again. For he saw Tracy sitting on the terrace knitting and beside her, in a little pen, a pretty, fair-haired baby intensely interested in biting into a small yellow duck.

Tracy waved when she saw him. "Hi, Mike." Then she tilted her head and laughed. "You may have it—the last laugh. I'm told it's sweeter. Go ahead and laugh your head off. Look," holding up the knitting, "I'm making a sweater. Would you believe it? You work like mad to get to the end of a row and then you work like mad to get to the end of another. It goes on and on forever. But it's fun. Want a drink?"

"No, thanks. Who," he nodded to the baby who was observing him with the candid gaze of the very young, "is it? Yours?"

Tracy tilted her head and laughed again. "No, stupid. She's Mac's granddaughter. Isn't she cute? Cecil and Mac went in and got her this morning. It seems her mother was delighted to have a day off to go shopping. Her name is Diane, the baby's name, that is, and she loves to chew on things. She's getting teeth, Mac says. She knows her name, too. I'd no idea they knew so much."

"Sure they do. They're people. Only they're little people. Where's Kit?"

"She's in her room doing the craziest thing for me. You know I have thousands of pictures, snapshots, taken all over the world. They've been around here for years and Kit suggested an album. Something to sigh over in my old age, I suppose."

ORDER OF EVENTS VITAL

WHETHER one particular development occurs before or after some other occurrence decides the fate of many a contract. This is dramatically so in the case of entries and stoppers in relationship to the establishing of a suit. If the suit gets set up before your side entry is gone, or before the defenders have removed your last stopper in their suit, then you can run it. If either of those events comes before the suit establishment, however, you are usually in trouble.

If West leads the heart 8 against that contract, every South player would be tempted to play low from the dummy in order to assure himself four tricks in the suit, even if the finesse against the K loses. But, closer study shows that this can beat his contract. East, if he has the K and wins the first heart, can switch to a spade and knock out the stopper. South then has only eight tricks ready to run—his one in spades, four in hearts and three in clubs. To get the ninth, he must lead a diamond. When the A wins that, the defenders can set him with spade tricks.

Brief study will show a sure way to make game by winning with the heart A and leading a diamond before the spade A is gone. This will produce four tricks in diamonds, since dummy's blocking honors can be discarded on South's clubs. The seven minor suit tricks plus two aces make an airtight game.

This deal is one of those published by George S. Coffin, of Fitzwilliam, New Hampshire, in his book "Sure Tricks" by Ivar Anderson of Sweden and others, including himself. As with many of the 273 problem deals, only the North-South hands of this deal are presented to the solver, who must figure out the answer as if at the actual bridge table, before looking at the solution in the back of the book. Mr. Coffin is a genius on finding and getting up deals which involve interesting problems of all types.

No More 'Pearl Harbors' Congress Air Board Plan

B-29s Would Face Delay Getting Ready for Fight

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The congressional aviation policy board's report on the state of United States air power, and what to do about it, has within a week of its issuance become the most important document of its kind in American history. Here is why:

More than 75 per cent of the board's recommendations have already been put into legislative form and will be introduced in Congress, with support assured because the report was written by congressmen themselves.

Historic aviation policy charts of the past—the Morrow board report of 1925, the Howell report of 1938 and the report of President Truman's Air Policy commission two months ago—did not have this advantage.

Bills now being written include one to assure warplane design and procurement over a five-year, rather than the current two-year, basis.

By this a healthy plane-building industry will be assured. Such an industry, able to expand quickly in an emergency, is the cornerstone of an air force powerful enough to deter aggressors or, failing that, to retaliate quickly and destructively.

The year of waiting which followed Pearl Harbor, while the country's plants geared to war production, will not happen again.

● SUPERFORCES "DEAD DUCKS"—The United States was the dominant air power nation in World War II largely because of the 2,865 B-29 Superforts which gave Uncle Sam matchless big-bomber strength.

However, military experts insist that, in event of sudden war, the Superforts would be "dead ducks." A total of 2,507 of the giant airplanes are in dead storage.

—If the Air Force had the ground crews it would take at least three months to put the B-29s in condition to fly. The Air Force, as of now, hasn't the ground crews. If the air crews were available on M-Day, it would take a year to train them. As of now, the air crews are missing.

Another six months would be required to combine B-29 groups into an adequate force to counter-attack.

In contrast, Russian factories turned out more than 40,000 aircraft in 1944, last year for which accurate figures are generally available.

CONTRIBUTION TO PEACE

IT IS hard to say whether responsibility rests with officials or reporters, or both, for the fact that certain testimony before the Senate armed services committee seemed to subscribe to the idea that only by war talk can the nation be persuaded to arm itself.

It was reported that the Secretary of the Navy told the committee that foreign submarines—reporters supplied the implication that they were Russian—had been sighted on three occasions within 200 to 800 miles of the United States shores or possessions. The information was presented by the secretary in connection with his plea for more men and aircraft for the navy.

The high seas are free to all who wish to sail them. A fuss about a submarine 200 miles off shore, of whatever nationality, is alarmist to the point of absurdity.

On the same day air officials discussed before the committee the possibility of bombing Moscow and said B-29 bombers can reach any part of Russia and go on to land at American bases. It was like a schoolboy saying to the boy across the aisle, "I can punch you in the nose if I want to."

Americans are known the world over as loud talkers, and such talk will make small impression at the Kremlin. It does not seem calculated to contribute to the peace of the world.

COUNTING PENNIES

THOSE weary of hunting change for a 13-cent street car ride, or puzzled about paying for a half-cent postage stamp, may have wished the government would issue some more convenient coins. If so, the hope had better be dropped right now. The United States mint is not interested, though it gets many requests for new money. New Yorkers, currently plagued by their new 8-cent subway fare, would love to have available a handy coin worth that amount, and they have been at pains to say so.

The present coinage system has been going on with very little change for 75 years. What has been good all these years, Congress thinks, is all right for many more. Before 1873 there were some nice little half-cent pieces, a 2-center and a 3-center. For a few years during the 1870s there was a 20-cent piece. But for some reason all have disappeared.

Most people like the present coins well enough—except that they go too fast.

The Communists seem to be engaged in a plan to make everybody dislike the money more than ever.

How many of our present day notions will seem as absurd 100 years hence?

"Lake Success" is a good name—as long as the sponsors can hang onto it.

These Days

It is not within reason that Henry Wallace can be elected President of the United States in 1948. It is probably, as things are now, that he will receive between 5,000,000 and 10,000,000 votes. This will be the largest vote that any third-party leader ever received in American history.

He will then lead a sizeable minority party whose strength is not guesswork but was recorded in a general election. That the spine of his support is the Communist party; that his most vociferous advocates are renowned fellow-travelers, will not affect the situation politically. His mere appearance on the scene has already created such havoc that the Democratic leadership has been shocked into confusion.

Wallace employs the Communist technique of stimulating discontent and then combining the discontented elements into a mass following. His slogan, immediately after the war, "Boom and Bust," designed to prophesy a depression which never arrived, started a series of strikes which is the principle element in the current inflation. That he produced and used admittedly phony statistics to achieve this end bothers him not at all because his mind seems to live in a realm of slogans one of which is "The greatest good for the greatest number," which he alone knows how to achieve.

Way back in 1934, Henry Wallace wrote: "But, in addition to recognizing the honest seekers by whatever path they come, it is also essential to remember the need for tremendous earnestness. Earnestness of the depth I have in mind can come only from such a contact with inner and outer reality that it produces a state of mind which can say in all honesty, 'Thus saith the Lord.' Or in more modern language, 'The whole current of righteous events is in this direction. Decision is undeferrable. If we decide wrongly, the time of great tribulation will come upon us.'"

It was in this particular writing that he first employed the phrase, "The world is one world," subsequently captured by Wendell Willkie and Harold Stassen and others who were seeking to dramatize internationalism. Wallace has never departed from that concept, which in reality has come to mean the federation of the world under the hegemony of Soviet Russia. This trend, it is now the policy of the United States and the countries of Western Europe to arrest. But it remains the cornerstone of Henry Wallace's concept of his own role in politics.

The danger of Wallace is not that his is a confused mind, that he did or did not write the Guru letters, that he was or was not a participant in mystical religions. The danger is that he has a clear concept and a firm purpose, which is to produce a one world, no matter by what means, no matter under which country. Such a concept means the elimination of the United States as a national state, the subordination of its policy and even its life to the one world. When he was laughed at for his "milk for the Hottentots," he meant precisely that even if, in actual practice and for a time, it also meant reducing milk for Americans. It is the idea of "The greatest good for the greatest number" carried to an illogical absurdity.

To some, this makes Henry Wallace an attractive social reformer and they will follow him in a blind mass. Actually, it makes him an astute menace to the United States because he has eliminated from his thinking altogether the United States as a separate and distinct national entity.

A Symptom In Children That Always Alarms Parents

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A SYMPTOM which frightens parents is often a blessing in disguise because it sends them post-haste to the doctor for expert help. Hematuria which means the presence of blood in the urine, is such a symptom, especially in young children. And luckily so, for when such a situation exists, no time should be lost in finding and treating the disorder which is causing it.

Search Complicated

The search may be complicated, for blood in the urine may result from many different diseases, some chiefly affecting the kidney and bladder and others being of a more general nature. The doctor's search for causes will be somewhat conditioned by the age of the patient.

In a child, for instance, he will, as a rule, first suspect nephritis or kidney inflammation, and pyelitis or inflammation of the part of the kidney in which the urine collects before it passes into the bladder. When these are ruled out by diagnostic tests, he will probably think next of rickets and scurvy, both of which have been known to cause this symptom.

Disease Affecting Blood

In obscure cases he will also consider the possibility of some disease affecting the blood itself, such as purpura, in which there is bleeding into the skin and membranes of the body; hemophilia, in which the clotting power of the blood is affected; and internal hemorrhages are common, or leukemia, in which there is a great increase in the number of white cells.

In young and middle-aged adults the presence of blood in the urine may also indicate pyelitis and nephritis, but here the doctor must think of certain other possible causes as well, among them tuberculosis of the kidney, stone in the bladder, ureter, or kidney, and infections of the urinary tract.

In late middle-aged and elderly persons, long-continued inflammation of the kidney, and high blood pressure may be responsible for blood in the urine. However, at this period of life, tumors of the kidney or bladder are more often present than in younger persons, and these tumors are frequently responsible for the occurrence of blood in the urine.

If the blood comes from the bladder, it is usually brighter in color than that which comes from the kidney, pelvis or ureter. Fever, together with the bleeding, usually indicates some type of infection. Pain and frequency in emptying the bladder suggest some condition affecting the lower part of the urinary tract, such as bladder inflammation, stone in the bladder, tuberculosis, enlargement of the prostate gland, or tumor.

Chronic Infection

Pain in the sides, passing down into the groin, often indicates a chronic infection, or a stone in the ureter or canal leading from the kidney to the bladder.

Thus, it may be seen that blood in the urine can be due to a large variety of ailments, many of which are serious. Hence, there should be no delay in seeking the advice of a doctor when blood appears in the urine. The condition requires thorough and careful study on his part to determine the source of the bleeding, because it is only after the cause is found that intelligent treatment can be given.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. L. My sister-in-law tests her urine with Benedict solution. Would this test also work in my case? Answer: The same solution could be used to test for sugar in your case.

CHAPTER THIRTY

TONY looked suddenly imbued with energy and ambition. He seemed to regard the secret of his job with great amusement. Turning to leave Kit, he walked with a spring in his step. Kit saw Anita join him on the steps where the car was waiting and embrace him lovingly.

Later at luncheon Anita's pretty face was radiant. "What do you suppose Tony is up to, Tracy? He's gone into town a couple of times without me. To see about this job, I suppose. At last he's getting something worthy of him. It must be good. He's terribly excited about it."

Tracy looked extremely pleased, although she spoke teasingly. "Perhaps he'll bring you a new diamond bracelet from his first week's salary."

Anita folded her hands. She was too excited to eat. "And we can get an apartment in town, a much larger one than we had the last time. And I hope to get a better decorator than the one I had before. We'll get our things out of storage and buy some new ones. Oh, it'll be simply marvelous to give parties again and have my charge accounts active. There's so much I want to get!"

Tracy looked at her, the Tracy who recently had had leisure to think. "There was a war, you know. There could be another. People are also giving..."

"Nonsense! Why do you read the newspapers and listen to the radio? It's nothing but pessimism. It isn't good for people to read and listen to that stuff. They're all alarmists."

Tracy twisted her mouth. "What do you think, Kit?" Kit said, "My aunt always said that it was wise to start closing the windows when you saw the storm coming rather than waiting until the storm broke. Then it's raining in before you get around to all of them."

Anita looked bored and vague. Tracy chuckled quietly. Then she said, "You're going into town today to get the wool and needles, you know." She turned to Anita. "I'm going to make a sweater. Would you like to join me?"

Anita looked at her with scorn mixed with pity. "I won't have time, darling. As soon as Tony comes back, I'll be getting ready to look for an apartment and buying things."

"Of course," Tracy said. There was scorn and pity in her voice, too. "Our little knitting circle wouldn't interest one about to go on a spending spree. Well, you buy and I'll learn how to knit if it kills me. Who knows? I may even progress to needlepoint!"

Anita said, "I'm sure I don't know why on earth you bother to make a sweater when you can buy all you want."

"Honest labor, darling. Using the hands to create... The joy of achievement. You wouldn't know about such things."

A brown envelope arrived for Kit before she left for New York that afternoon. Opening it, she took out newspaper clippings yellow with age and sat down at the desk to read them. The printed story of her father's case.

She could continue Mike's search, she thought. She could go to see John Bennett and try to locate her father's people. She could make a huge issue out of her new knowledge. Yet somehow she knew it wasn't wise, that it would do nothing but the repetition of the story of a man and a woman who had had a great deal though they had not had it long. And somehow, too, it would be a desecration of the dead, the stirring up of sad memories, the vain bringing into the present the past which could never be changed.

And, as Mike had said, they were very real to her. They couldn't be. She didn't remember them. She thought, I'll write Aunt Chris a long letter tonight. She slipped the clippings back into the brown envelope and the envelope into the desk drawer. Cecil was waiting to drive her into New York.

In New York after she had bought deep rose wool for Tracy and deep blue wool for herself and needles for both, she shopped for new clothes without anticipation or interest. Her mouth had a guilty, sad little smile. She thought, I keep wondering what Kirk would like. He probably likes good quality, smart but conservative clothes on women. Black perhaps. All men like blue...

But did it matter very much when each August day brought the sun, rain slowly but surely to a close, taking Kirk back to Baltimore, taking Tracy she knew not where? Would Tracy, this winter, alone with just her and the servants? It was doubtful. But Tracy, too, noticed the signs of the end of summer, the shorter days, the cooler nights. Would she, saying nothing, doing nothing, let Kirk go back to his Baltimore life? That seemed doubtful, too...

Kit bought a black light wool suit and an absurd little black hat with a veil. Wherever Tracy decided to go, the black suit would be useful.

Mike, driving up one afternoon the following week, disbelieved his eyes. He had an impulse to rub them and look again. For he saw Tracy sitting on the terrace knitting and beside her, a little pen, a pretty, fair-haired baby intensely interested in biting into a small yellow duck.

Tracy waved when she saw him. "Hi, Mike." Then she tilted her head and laughed. "You may have it—the last laugh. I'm told it's sweeter. Go ahead and laugh your head off. Look," holding up a sweater. "I'm making a sweater. Would you believe it? You work like mad to get to the end of a row and then you work like mad to get to the end of another. It goes on and on forever. But it's fun. Want a drink?"

"No, thanks. Who," he nodded to the baby who was observing him with the candid gaze of the very young, "is it? Yours?"

Tracy tilted her head and laughed again. "No, stupid. She's Mac's granddaughter. Isn't she cute? Cecil and Mac went in and got her this morning. It seems her mother was delighted to have a day off to go shopping. Her name is Diana, the baby's name, that is, and she loves to chew on things. She's getting teeth, Mac says. She knows her name, too. I'd no idea they knew so much."

"Sure they do. They're people. Only they're little people. Where's Kit?" "She's in her room doing the craziest thing for me. You know I have thousands of pictures, snapshots, taken all over the world. They've been around here for years and Kit suggested an album. Something to sigh over in my old age, I suppose."

JOBS UPON A TIME

Jesse L. Lasky, motion picture producer, is the son of a California pioneer, and took a whirl at gold mining himself in Alaska in his youth. His first real job, however, was to guard the shoes outside his father's shoe store in San Francisco, his native city. He learned to play the cornet, playing in school orchestras. Following high school graduation Lasky became a cub reporter.

When Jesse was 20 his father died, and as that was the year of the big Alaska gold rush, he went to Nome to make his fortune. He went broke instead, but he had his cornet along and played it in the little theater at Cape Nome which gave him money enough to take him back to San Francisco where he played in small orchestras. In New York he met Cecil B. DeMille and formed his first motion picture company under his own name.

Bob Hawk, ex-school teacher, ad-lib expert and veteran radio quiz master, was born in Creston, Ia., but moved to Oklahoma with his family when he was five. He studied dramatics in Oklahoma City, Kansas City and Chicago, but attended Southwestern college from which he received a teacher's degree. While teaching English in junior high Bob decided to try radio and offered to work without pay until he learned the routine. He was on the payroll within a year, and now is tops as comedy-quiz master.

ORDER OF EVENTS VITAL

WHETHER one particular development occurs before or after some other occurrence decides the fate of many a contract. This is dramatically so in the case of entries and stoppers in relationship to the establishing of a suit. If the suit gets set up before your side entry is gone, or before the defenders have removed your last stopper in their suit, then you can run it. If either of those events comes before the suit establishment, however, you are usually in trouble.

If West leads the heart 8 against that contract, every South player would be tempted to play low from the dummy in order to assure himself four tricks in the suit, even if the finesse against the K loses. But closer study shows that this can beat his contract. East, if he has the K and wins the first heart, can switch to a spade and knock out the stopper. South then has only eight tricks ready to run—his one in spades, four in hearts and three in clubs. To get the ninth, he must lead a diamond. When the A wins that, the defenders can set him with spade tricks.

Brief study will show a sure way to make game by winning with the heart A and leading a diamond before the spade A is gone. This will produce four tricks in diamonds, since dummy's blocking honors can be discarded on South's clubs. The seven minor suit tricks plus two aces make an airtight game. This deal is one of those published by George S. Coffin, of Fitzwilliam, New Hampshire, in his book "Sure Tricks" by Ivar Anderson of Sweden and others, including himself. As with many of the 273 problem deals, only the North-South hands of this deal are presented to the solver, who must figure out the answer as if at the actual bridge table, before looking at the solution in the back of the book. Mr. Coffin is a genius on finding and getting up deals which involve interesting problems of all types.

No More 'Pearl Harbors' Congress Air Board Plan
B-29s Would Face Delay Getting Ready for Fight
Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The congressional aviation policy board's report on the state of United States air power, and what to do about it, has within a week of its issuance become the most important document of its kind in American history. Here is why: More than 75 per cent of the board's recommendations have already been put into legislative form and will be introduced in Congress, with support assured because the report was written by congressmen themselves.

Historic aviation policy charts of the past—the Morrow board report of 1925, the Howell report of 1938 and the report of President Truman's Air Policy commission two months ago—did not have this advantage.

Bills now being written include one to assure warplane design and procurement over a five-year, rather than the current two-year, basis. By this a healthy plane-building industry will be assured. Such an industry, able to expand quickly in an emergency, is the cornerstone of an air force powerful enough to deter aggressors or, failing that, to retaliate quickly and destructively.

The year of waiting which followed Pearl Harbor, while the country's plants geared to war production, will not happen again.

● SUPERFORCES 'DEAD DUCKS'—The United States was the dominant air power nation in World War II largely because of the 2,865 B-29 Superforts which gave Uncle Sam matchless big-bomber strength.

However, military experts insist that, in event of sudden war, the Superforts would be "dead ducks." A total of 2,507 of the giant airplanes are in dead storage.

● NEXT MOVES IN 'REBELLIOUS' DIXIE—The "rebellious" South will allow no grass to grow under its political feet in its war against President Truman's nomination or election to succeed himself.

Close on the heels of a seven-state governors' conference, a resolution, calling for "last ditch" war on the President, state caucuses will be held in the South. Purpose will be to plan ways of trying to prevent Mr. Truman's nomination at Philadelphia next July, although southerners are not very optimistic about it.

Grass roots, anti-Truman conferences will be held in South Carolina, Mississippi, Georgia, Arkansas, Texas, Virginia and Alabama. The delegates, with consent of the state organizations, probably will decide upon one "southern candidate," and will back him at the convention and in the election.

Many administration stalwarts admit that South Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas, Georgia and possibly Virginia are lost to Mr. Truman, even if he is the nominee.

● AFL'S POLITICAL LEAGUE MAY DISBAND—Some AFL sources say the federation's newly-formed political league may be abandoned if the Supreme Court holds that the Taft-Hartley Act's ban on union political expenditures is unconstitutional. A federal district court has already made such a ruling and the government is now appealing the decision.

The AFL's political unit was set up specifically to avoid the Taft-Hartley prohibition. The league is being financed by voluntary contributions and does not run afoul of the ban on spending union funds in politics.

However, if the court holds the ban invalid, regular federation funds can be used in the political campaign and the big reason for the league's existence removed.

Violence Follows Pope's Talk

Election Jitters Hit Italians

ROME, March 30—Pre-election violence in Italy left three persons dead today and Communist newspapers opened new propaganda attacks against Pope Pius XII.

Leftwing papers accused the pontiff of "breaking the Easter truce" in his Sunday address in which he warned Italians "Christianity is at the crossroads."

They termed the pontiff's message "an election speech."

Milan, in Italy's turbulent industrial north, was the center of disorders between Communists and their foes.

A Communist and a right-wing party member were killed in a gun battle which followed a heated political argument at Somaglia, in the Milan area.

AT LEGNANO, also in the Milan area—A Communist strong-arm squad beat up liberal member of parliament, Michele Tumminelli. The Communists overturned Tumminelli's platform and prevented him from speaking.

A third death occurred at Savona, near Genoa, where a 13-year old shoeshine boy was reported to have killed an elderly woman by hurling a bomb at a church.

Meanwhile, the Italian foreign office experienced a "false alarm" when Soviet Ambassador Hostilev delivered a diplomatic note.

The note proved merely a Russian protest against the showing in Italy of the American film, "Ninotchka," which the Soviets charged was "anti-Russian."

"Ninotchka" is a nine-year old motion picture, starring Melvyn Douglas and Greta Garbo.

"There's a lot behind that Wheel, Sonny"

In a little boy's mind, a railroad is a locomotive.

He thinks of it in terms of the "engine," the whistle and bell which herald its way, and the big wheels which move it over the tracks.

Ask this little boy, "Who works on the railroad?" and very likely he'll reply, "The man who runs the engine."

When he grows up, his answer will be more complete . . . will include ticket and freight agents, brakemen, section workers, firemen, conductors and other people the traveler and shipper see working on the railroad. But this little boy may become an old man and never realize completely what a vast combination of trades and professions it takes to run a railroad.

The organization of a modern railroad, such as the Norfolk and Western, includes hundreds of men working in jobs that are not generally thought of as railroading — doctors and special police officers . . . construction engineers and agricultural agents . . . chemists and lawyers . . . physicists and financial experts . . . research engineers and real estate specialists . . . inspectors and purchasing agents . . . salesmen and blueprint technicians . . . photographers and industrial development specialists . . . telephone technicians and draftsmen . . . painters and plumbers . . . carpenters and metallurgists . . . upholsterers and welders . . . electricians and cinematographers . . .

All these and many more specialized abilities are necessary in dependable railroad transportation . . . in producing the Norfolk and Western's Precision Transportation.

That's why we say, "There's A Lot Behind That Wheel, Sonny."

Violence Follows Pope's Talk

Election Jitters Hit Italians

ROME, March 30—Pre-election violence in Italy left three persons dead today and Communist newspapers opened new propaganda attacks against Pope Pius XII.

Leftwing papers accused the pontiff of "breaking the Easter truce" in his Sunday address in which he warned Italians "Christianity is at the crossroads."

They termed the pontiff's message "an election speech."

Milan, in Italy's turbulent industrial north, was the center of disorders between Communists and their foes.

A Communist and a right-wing party member were killed in a gun battle which followed a heated political argument at Somaglia, in the Milan area.

AT LEGNANO—also in the Milan area—a Communist strong-arm squad beat up liberal member of parliament, Michele Tumminelli. The Communists overturned Tumminelli's platform and prevented him from speaking.

A third death occurred at Savona, near Genoa, where a 13-year old shoeshine boy was reported to have killed an elderly woman by hurling a bomb at a church.

Meanwhile, the Italian foreign office experienced a "false alarm" when Soviet Ambassador Hostilev delivered a diplomatic note.

The note proved merely a Russian protest against the showing in Italy of the American film, "Ninotchka," which the Soviets charged was "anti-Russian."

"Ninotchka" is a nine-year old motion picture starring Melvyn Douglas and Greta Garbo.

Dewey Said Losing New Ground

Truman Gains; Ike Won't Run

WASHINGTON, March 30 — The political skies today are clearer for President Truman but gloomier than ever for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York in their campaigns for the 1948 presidential nominations.

The Truman cause was given a boost when an official Army spokesman declared that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would never accept a "draft" for the Democratic nomination.

This pulled the rug out from under various Democratic dissidents who believe Truman will be defeated in November and sought to use Eisenhower's popularity to block the President's nomination.

The Army spokesman, after conferring with Eisenhower, said the general "would under no circumstances" accept the Democratic nomination.

Gov. Dewey, meanwhile, must note that his leading rival for the Republican nomination, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, has gained ground in Florida, West Virginia and Nebraska.

THE WORST news came from Florida, which had been regarded as a Dewey stronghold. Now the word reaches Washington that an overwhelming majority of the delegation will be for Taft.

This Dewey upset resulted from an intra-party clash between two Republican leaders in Florida. As a result, J. Leonard Replogle, millionaire steel man and No. 1 Dewey leader in the South, will not be a delegate. Other important GOP leaders have switched from Dewey to Taft. So Dewey will lose the delegation.

Recent reports have come out of West Virginia that GOP National Committeeman Walter S. Hallanan has thrown in his lot with Dewey and will bring most of that state's delegation to the convention pledged to the New York governor.

Hallanan indignantly denies these reports. His friends insist most of the delegation will be for Taft.

A confidential survey of Nebraska, where the delegates have been agreed upon, shows Taft will get about half and Dewey will run third behind Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota. An overwhelming Dewey victory in the preferential primary April 13 might swing most of the delegates to the New Yorker.

BUT REPORTS from Nebraska indicate Dewey may run third in the primary, with either Taft or Stassen winning.

Dewey, meanwhile, heads toward the biggest hurdle of his 1948 campaign—the Wisconsin primary April 6. As in Nebraska he is threatened with a third place finish, behind Stassen and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The MacArthur and Stassen forces both claim they will elect a majority of Wisconsin's 27 delegates. Both groups insist Dewey will run third.

Justice Department Promising More Arrests Of Alien Reds

WASHINGTON, March 30—Justice department officials predict that the government's deportation drive on alien Communists is due to gain momentum very soon with many more important arrests in prospect.

The roundup of suspected alien subversives, first of its kind since the prewar crackdown on Nazis, has resulted in more than 30 deportation arrests within the past few months.

Department officials, however, describe these arrests as "only the beginning" of a highly-gearred campaign to rid the nation of alien Communists.

They express the opinion that the Communist party in the United States is already feeling the shock of successive blows. The department regards four of the aliens accused so far of Communist affiliations as being particularly influential in the American Communist movement. All four have been served recently with deportation warrants.

JUSTICE department officials list them as John Williamson, Alexander Bittelman, Irving Potash and Claudia Jones. All four had been working in New York City. Williamson claims American citizenship.

Williamson, Bittelman, and Potash are charged with being members of the national committee of the Communist party.

Claudia Jones, the department charges, is a state educational director of the Young Communists League and a member of the international committee of the Communist party.

Good News For Folks Who Suffer From

- ✓ STOMACH GAS
- ✓ SOUR FOOD TASTE
- ✓ ACID INDIGESTION

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal. Taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief from this nervous distress.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance.

This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients. Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with over-doses of soda and other alkalis to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

LUCKY STREAK REQUIRED

Weak-Minded Banker Needed For Flag Bets

NEW YORK, March 30—If you know a millionaire with a lot of nerve who also feels lucky there is a betting proposition awaiting such a fellow.

You probably noticed the early price line on the forthcoming major league pennant races. The New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox are co-favorites in the American League and the St. Louis Cardinals are the favorites in the National League.

However, at the prices made by betting Commissioner James J. Carroll of St. Louis, it would take a courageous millionaire on a lucky streak to wager as much as $5 on either pennant race.

A man must have an utter disregard for money to accept the offered prices. In case you overlooked it, you bet $6 to win $5 on either the Yankees or the Red Sox. You bet $5 to win $8 on the Cardinals.

THE YANKEES and Red Sox wouldn't be a good bet at that price even if they were running coupled like a two-horse entry which pays off no matter which of the two wins.

As for the Cardinals, unless Marty Marion is in there at shortstop most of the way through the campaign they will win no pennant this time. Marion has a bad knee. It is a new injury on top of an old one.

Another interesting thing about these prices is that they show so little regard for the defending champions. The Yankees won the world title last Fall, as you must remember, but are bracketed in the prices with the Red Sox.

The Dodgers, despite their pennant victory last season, are rated third in the National League behind St. Louis at 8 to 5 and Boston at 2 to 1. The Dodgers are 3 to 1, just two points ahead of the New York Giants who are 5 to 1.

Those figures indicate an expected close race. Look at the American League. Behind the

Smith Winner Over Foxworth

CINCINNATI, March 30—Light Heavyweight Billy Smith battered Bob Foxworth here last night to win a third-round technical knockout before 5,000 fight fans.

The Chicago Negro went down before a flurry of lefts and rights after the Oakland fighter had driven him into the ropes. The end came at 1:30 of the third session of their scheduled 10-rounder when Referee Tony Wardorf stepped in and halted the bout.

Training Camp News Briefs

By International News Service
The Brooklyn Dodgers, having finished preliminary training in the Dominican Republic, will fly today to Florida, where they will face real competition from other major league clubs.

Manager Leo Durocher says his club has excellent speed, good defense and sufficient power. Leo the Lip is well pleased with everything in general except that he isn't sure about his pitching.

Whether the National League champions are ahead or behind of their senior circuit rivals will be demonstrated quickly in games on the mainland.

The American League race will be a photo finish between New York and Boston, if yesterday's marathon between the Yankees and the Red Sox can be taken as a criterion. The two bitter rivals battled to a 17-inning, 2-2 deadlock, the longest contest of the Spring.

GOOD PITCHING was in evidence on other fronts. The power of Detroit's pitching was confirmed when Art Houtteman, the Tigers' former sandlotter, went the route and beat the Phillies, 7 to 4.

Al Gettel and Bob Muncie of Cleveland turned in a five-hit, 2-0 shutout over the St. Louis Browns.

Larry Jansen and Joe Beggs practically duplicated this feat in blanketing Pittsburgh, 2 to 0. Jack Lohrke's homer was enough to win.

Other results: White Sox 11, Cubs 6; Braves 10, Cardinals "B" team 4.

The Cincinnati Reds went into a home-and-home series with the Phillies today and tomorrow fortified by a four game winning streak and three victories in a row over the Winter-book National League favorites, the Cardinals.

The Reds defeated the Cards, 4 to 2, yesterday with Rookie Walker Cress and Veteran Ken Raffensberger teaming in a six-hit pitching performance.

Hoping for a continuation of the improved hurling that has marked the current winning streak, Manager Johnny Neun planned to trot out another rookie-vet combination today in Herman Wehmeier and Johnny Hetki.

SCHEDULE FOR the coming season follows:

102 Candidates Out For Bucks

COLUMBUS, March 30—Coach Wes Fesler expected several additions to his Ohio State football crew today after 102 candidates reported for yesterday's first day of Spring practice.

The Feslermen will go through their drills without Quarterback Pete Perini and Halfback Alex Verdova, who are members of the baseball squad.

Other notable absentees yesterday, however, included Halfbacks Bob Demmel and Bill Newell and Center Chuck Renner.

The Bucks spent most of the opening session on calisthenics, individual blocking

Kentucky, Oilers Due In Finals

Groza-Kurland Duel Awaited

NEW YORK, March 30—The final of the Olympic basketball playoffs at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night between the Phillips Oilers and Kentucky not only will be the game of the century, but also a personal scoring duel between the rival centers—Alex Groza and Bob Kurland.

When Kentucky's Groza scored 33 points as the Wildcats swamped Baylor 77-59 last night, he qualified as a one-man menace. Caging 15 field goals, Big Alex broke the Garden tournament record for high scoring. The Bears couldn't stop him even when they double-teamed him.

Kurland, ace of the Oilers, tallied only 21 points as he and his mates drubbed the Denver Nuggets 69-40 in the other semifinal, but don't let that fool you. The seven-foot Robert is a deceptive cuss. This great All-America frequently feeds his mates and doesn't try too hard if it isn't necessary.

If the heat is on tomorrow night, just watch Big Bob go.

THE HEAT may well be on in this titanic clash between the Oilers, perennial AAU champions, and the Wildcats, cream of the college quintets. Before this tournament started, the Oilers were the favorites. But Kentucky has improved so rapidly that the Blue Grass quintet now boasts many supporters.

Both the Oilers and Kentucky were strong favorites last night, because the Oilers had whipped Denver seven times in eight previous meetings this season, and Kentucky had beaten Baylor handsily last week in the NCAA final.

State-Beulah Tiff May Last All Summer

COLUMBUS, March 30—The state racing commission and the Beulah Park Jockey Club apparently are going to fight it out if it takes all Summer.

They came no nearer a solution of their deadlock over installation of totalizers after another commission meeting yesterday afternoon.

The commission announced it would not act on racing dates for the Grove City track until an appeal against the tote provision in Franklin County common pleas court is "concluded or withdrawn."

Although Beulah Park attorneys protested other phases of the new state racing code, their chief exception is taken against the ruling making totalizers mandatory on all tracks in excess of three-fourths mile.

The commission apparently holds the upper hand, however. Although the rules are regarded as temporarily suspended until the appeal is decided, the track had hoped to start its Spring race meeting May 8.

Kramer-Riggs Battle Awaited

COLUMBUS, March 30—The marathon pro tennis feud between lanky Jack Kramer and little Bobby Riggs will be renewed for the 58th time here tonight.

The two net experts will face each other in the state fairgrounds coliseum with Kramer holding a 40-17 edge in the series.

CINCINNATI, March 30—Light Heavyweight Billy Smith battered Bob Foxworth here last night to win a third-round technical knockout before 5,000 fight fans.

The Chicago Negro went down before a flurry of lefts and rights after the Oakland fighter had driven him into the ropes. The end came at 1:30 of the third session of their scheduled 10-round when Referee Tony Wainwright stepped in and halted the bout.

Another interesting thing about these prices is that they show so little regard for the defending champions. The Yankees won the world title last fall, as you must remember, but are bracketed in the prices with the Red Sox.

The Dodgers, despite their pennant victory last season, are rated third in the National League behind St. Louis at 8 to 5 and Boston at 2 to 1. The Dodgers are 3 to 1, just two points ahead of the New York Giants who are 5 to 1.

Those figures indicate an expected close race. Look at the American League. Behind the

LUCKY STREAK REQUIRED

Weak-Minded Banker Needed For Flag Bets

NEW YORK, March 30—If you know a millionaire with a lot of nerve who also feels lucky there is a betting proposition awaiting such a fellow.

You probably noticed the early price line on the forthcoming major league pennant races. The New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox are co-favorites in the American League and the St. Louis Cardinals are the favorites in the National League.

However, at the prices made by betting Commissioner James J. Carroll of St. Louis, it would take a courageous millionaire on a lucky streak to wager as much as $5 on either pennant race.

A man must have an utter disregard for money to accept the offered prices. In case you overlooked it, you bet $6 to win $5 on either the Yankees or the Red Sox. You bet $5 to win $8 on the Cardinals.

THE YANKEES and Red Sox wouldn't be a good bet at that price even if they were running coupled like a two-horse entry which pays off no matter which of the two wins.

As for the Cardinals, unless Marty Marion is in there at shortstop most of the way through the campaign they will win no pennant this time. Marion has a bad knee. It is a new injury on top of an old one.

Rail Companies Face Pay Hikes

CLEVELAND, March 30—A new round of wage increases for the railroad brotherhoods may be asked today upon completion of a study of the presidential emergency board report by the trainmen and conductors.

The wages and rules committees of the two operating brotherhoods opened meetings in Cleveland yesterday to map plans for demanding longer vacations with pay, overtime pay for Sundays and holidays and other rules changes.

A probable consolidation of the trainmen and conductors with the engineers, firemen and switchmen in pressing for new wage demands is seen if the board's recommendations are accepted under protest by the BLE, BLF and E and SUNA.
